VOX POPULI OILED UP

Whenever the people speak up long and loud the politicians jump, and the trouble is they do not speak enough, and so the servants rule the masters instead of the other way around. The senatorial "irreconcilables" figured that there was much notoriety and some political glory in the irreconcilability, but now to their great alarm, they learn that it is very nearly synonymous with political suicide. Nearly every one of the Senators who bushwhacked the four-power treaty has heard from the home folks and the word has not been pleasant. The sentiment against Senator Hiram Johnson in California, for example, is going to such lengths that Herbert Hoover has been asked to return to the state where his home is and run. Maryland citizens are calling for some stout administration supporter to enter the primary against Senator France. Senator Reed of Missouri attempted to put his rival on the fence with the issue of "Newberryism," but now he finds himself on the defensive as one who attempted to wreck the labors of the arms conference.

LOS ANGELES NUTS LUXURIANT

California leads all other states in the variety and largeness of its nut crops, but the prime samples grow in Los Angeles. Just now a gentleman there by the name of Hayssen has issued an ultimatum to President Harding, demanding his resignation and telling him of a bloodless revolution now on, with headquarters at Los Angeles, which proposes to settle all the troubles flesh and bone to. Mr. Hayssen himself is to become president the first of June, and he says he has behind him a national organization, called the Christian Soldiers' Union, with 47,000,000 members and $50,000,000,000 cash in bank. The capitol is to be moved from Washington to Los Angeles; all crime is to cease; the breweries and saloons are to reopen and railroads are to be owned by the government, with transportation free. We do not just understand how the reopening of the breweries and saloons is to lessen crime, but at any rate are glad that Los Angeles instead of Hollywood is to get the capitol buildings. The oranges are a failure this year, but the nut crop is something wonderful.

One problem of divorce
A baby solved. Of course
Not by contriving—
By merely arriving.

The cost of living has not got down to "all you can get," and sometimes more.

Those wealthy young fools who kidnap girls in automobiles ought to get dog-catcher nets on the machines so the girls won't jump out.

A millionaire's life is full of perils nowadays. Uncle Sam swipes most of his wad, chorus girls and vamps get a big chunk, and alimony takes what is left.

There is always something to worry about. If we go to heaven how are we going to get our shirt on over our wings, and if we go to the other place how are we going to smuggle in a jug of ice water and a suit of asbestos overalls? We've got a notion to stay right here.

Bryan ought to be willing to concede that those who voted against him in his various presidential campaigns must have been descendants of monkeys.

Decorating the ash and rubbish heap out in the alley or back yard with some old shoes and a dead cat don't seem to improve it much.

There has long been a sort of secret understanding that most red-headed girls were bowlegged, and we should think now would be a good time to find out the truth or error of the theory.

"REDS" AMONG COAL STRIKERS

As was to be expected, the "Reds" have started their activities among the striking coal miners and trouble is brewing. The Federal Government has stepped in and issued an injunction against them; in one state and the end is not in sight. Propaganda circulars over the signatures of the I. W. W. have been sent out which are little less than revolutionary in their language. They denounce the union leaders of both the coal miners and the railroad men's union and ask the formation of the one big union under I. W. W. domination. This sort of thing was inevitable and to be expected. It is the game the Soviet agents always play. They are paid to play it and it is the way they earn their money. Happily, however, there is little to fear from Bolshevik activities because their methods are outworn and generally recognized now as being stupid. Union officials know by experience that no one thing discredits a strike more thoroughly than does the suspicion that it contains even a "tinge of redness." The moment the public feels that Bolshevism is behind the tieup, that moment the public withdraws all sympathy from the strikers. It is now up to the coal miners to demonstrate that they are not being influenced by the agents of Lenin.

Times are constantly changing. We gentlemen now stay at the table and linger over our coffee at dinner in the evening, while the ladies adjourn to the other room to smoke.

Ninety-seven people out of every hundred are dependent upon others for support after they pass the age of 65, and the other three per cent have a hundred times more than they have any use for.

Most of the convicts in the penitentiaries insist that not only they were wrongfully convicted, but that most of those on the outside ought to be in.

Five years ago we entered the war with Germany, and our soldier boys were made much of as heroes. Now they are not even given a job after they got back home. In this we have been sentimental first and then ungrateful.

Mr. Blanton of Texas says the other Congressmen are liars, and the other members say Blanton is a liar, so it seems to be a question of veracity. Maybe they are all right.

Well, of course, we mustn't reduce our navy too much, because when the Prince of Wales and others like him come over we have to have a lot of battleships to sail out to meet him and fire 21 guns. Also it is necessary that Congressional committees be carried to distant islands for the purpose of investigating whether there is anything that needs investigation.

Detroit is building a $15,000,000 building for the General Motors Corporation with a floor area of 30 acres, accommodating 6000 workers in 1750 offices. Thus do we joyriders create joy as we honk along over life's paved highways, stopping only long enough to buy gas and help out old friend Rockefeller.

Lillian Russell advocates an immigration holiday of from one to five years, during which no immigrants shall be admitted to our shores, well, it does seem as though we ought to have a few Americans in America.

The stork brings a brand new baby to New York every nine minutes, day and night, 385 days in the year. No eight-hour shifts for Mr. Stork, and no five-day weeks. He is not eligible to the coal miners' union.

HOME BREW, HOOTCH AND MOONSHINE

Refused Drink; Fines Him

The Speck Inn at Speck, Long Island, N. Y., was the scene of a recent fracas, and as a result a laborer of the vicinity was arrested charged with arson. The proprietor of the Speck Inn claimed that the man he had arrested asked for a drink of good whiskey. When it was refused the laborer left the inn and shortly after the fire was discovered. A jug containing gasoline was found near the blaze and the prisoner's clothes bore the odor of gasoline when he was arrested.

Ship Vain Winkles Hootch

A New York City subway guard took a drink of liquor last June and was arrested. The custody of his nephew, who was in the hospital, was ordered. He went on a party last June and was surprised when told of his arrest. When he was taken to court actions when he was taken to court. When he was taken to court. When he was taken to court.

Starting Alibi

A confederator of Utica, N. Y., started the judge, when arraigned, in court for having liquor in his possession illegally, by declaring that the alcohol was not for his own consumption but to alibi the driver of his post three-legged calf. This calf is one of the attractions at the county fair in the neighborhood of Utica.

Bootleggers Decamp

Phillipsburg, N. J., is assuming the aspect of a "dry" town since the attack made on bootleggers by the pastor of the First M. E. Church. From the pulpit the pastor launched the attack against prominent persons habitually engaged in bootlegging. He threatened to mention names in his next attack and called upon the authorities to stop the traffic in liquor. After the sermon many of the "bootleggers" found it convenient to visit other sections for their health.

"Wet" Dry Goods Store

A dry goods store in the Brownsville section of Brooklyn did a thriving business recently, when it offered alcohol at $18 a gallon, in five gallon lots, according to the Federal Prohibition agents. The proprietor of the store was arrested by detectives after they persuaded him to sell them one gallon at the five gallon price, although the standard price for alcohol in Brooklyn is $5.50 per gallon.

Blame the Captain

Five sailors are being held under heavy bail to appear against a man, believed to be the leader of the rum-runners in New York and New Jersey. They brought the schooner, the J. B. Young, into New York harbor after running up and down the coast outside Sandy Hook, for several days. They claimed the captain left the vessel and that they knew nothing of liquor on board the J. B. Young when it reached port.

"Y" Baseball Team Assured This Season

Secretary V. D. Brammer of the Y. M. C. A. announced yesterday that ground suitable for a baseball diamond had been secured at First street and Bissell avenue. When completed, the diamond will be for the exclusive use of the younger boys of the city. City Manager James A. McVittie and the street department have made the immediate construction of the diamond possible by kindly furnishing labor and equipment free of charge.

The Y. M. C. A. is making plans for the formation of a boy's league among the churches of the city. Upon application to the Y. M. C. A., other boys may secure the use of the diamond.

Giant Powder Co. Sues For Damages

Attorney T. H. DeLay, acting for the Giant Powder company filed suit yesterday at the county seat for $4500 damages against the Island Transportation company. service of the week this year than ever before.

The week of April 24 to 29th has been set aside for observance in every part of the United States as "Be Kind to Animals Week" and April 30 has been designated Humane Sunday.

Ministers in Los Angeles, San Diego, San Francisco and elsewhere have requested material which is furnished free by the committee on request for the preparation of sermons.

While several forms of endeavor are being undertaken in the different states by the American Humane Association, which has charge of the nation-wide "Be Kind to Animals Week" campaign, it is specializing on an effort to have humane sermons or special Sunday school exercises to be given in the churches on April 30. Each of the 18 members of the California State Committee, of which Matthew McCurrie of San Francisco is chairman, is the head of 18 sub-committees in as many different localities throughout the state. Each of the sub-committees has some special campaign under way by means of which they hope to make the week a memorable one in their locality.

School superintendents and teachers have been interviewed and induced to include in the week's curriculum special exercises of a humane character. Other features for the observance of the week are the display of humane lantern slides in all theaters and motion picture houses, lectures on humane topics and parades demonstrating humaneness.

In 42 states central committees are directing the work of innumerable sub-committees in an effort to reach every locality, no matter how obscure. Various plans are being followed out in different sections, but in every case special attention is given to securing publicity in the local press.

The members of the California committee are: Matthew McCurrie, chairman, San Francisco; H. H. Hallett, Pasadena; H. A. Hammond; Riverside; Tsar Carter, Richmond; J. J. Winters, Sacramento; Mrs. G. F. Wakenfield, San Jose; F. Lee, Sta. Fleur, Santa Barbara; E. M. Spencer, Santa Rosa; Mrs. L. J. Dobbins, Monterey; Miss Mabel A. ### SYNOPSIS

CHAPTER I.—Occupying a dilapidated shack in the Silent City, a squatter settlement near Idaho, New York, Polly Hopkings lives with her father, small Jerry, and an old woman, Granny Hope. On an adjacent farm, Oscar Bennett, prosperous farmer, is a neighbor. He is secretly married to Evelyn Robertson, an exceedingly wealthy girl of the neighborhood. Polly alone knows their secret. Marcella MacKenzie, who owns the house, is a determined enemy of the squatters. Polly overhears a conversation between MacKenzie and a stranger in which the former avows his intention of driving the squatters from his land. The stranger sympathizes with the squatters, and earns Polly's gratitude.

CHAPTER II. Evelyn Robertson discovers from her mother that they are not rich, as she supposed, but practically living on the charity of Robert Percival, Evelyn's cousin.

CHAPTER III.—Polly learns from Robert Percival that the sympathetic stranger is Robert Percival. Evelyn charges Polly with a message to buy off Bennett and induce him to give her no more money, and urging him to be patient. She already bitterly resents her infatuation with and marriage to the ignorant farmer.

CHAPTER IV.—Polly conveys her message, and Oscar Bennett agrees to sell the house to her. Evelyn meets him that night. Polly has her father and Larry Bishop, a squatter who has suffered from the cruelty of MacKenzie, take an oath to do him no injury.

CHAPTER V.—Evelyn unsuccessfully tries to get money from her mother with which to buy off Bennett and induce him to leave the country, giving her freedom. She is really enamored of Marcella MacKenzie. At the arranged meeting that night Bennett threatens Evelyn with exposure unless she procures money for him.

CHAPTER VI.—Polly meets Robert Percival, and the latter attempts to seduce her. Polly's feeling being something like adoration.

CHAPTER VII.—Overhearing a conversation between MacKenzie and a stranger, Polly learns that the stranger is Robert Percival, and that he is in love with her. Polly, realizing the danger to her father, goes to MacKenzie and begs her to help the squatters. MacKenzie, who is a rich and influential man, though lacking the power of MacKenzie, agrees to do as he is asked. MacKenzie visits the Hopkings shack with an offer to the squatters, through Hopkins, to leave the vicinity, offering them a trifling sum of money. MacKenzie threatens to burn their pitiful dwellings and leave them homeless.

CHAPTER VIII.—Polly visits Percival in the Robertson home in an effort to induce him to help her. She is successful in securing his love for her, when the girl, a public foe, MacKenzie, sees Evelyn. She is so angry that she goes to MacKenzie and tells him after he has sought the Bennett farm and got rid of the squatters. Robert Percival and Evelyn in a boat, set out to help the squatters.

Robert Percival was no longer able to keep quiet. He stepped forward so that Polly saw him over Daddy's shoulder. She glared at him wildly. "Tell 'em—oh—tell 'em," she shuddered.

The tears in his eyes softened her expression. "It's like you to feel sorry for me, sir!" She wiped. "An' gettin' Daddy an' Wee Jerry back is like you, too. Every day I'm in jail I'll be prayin' you'll be happy." She struggled at the memory of Old Marc's words, "I'll get you next, huzzy!"

Then Robert, stung with remorse at his dishevelled hair, picked her out of her father's arms. When he had placed her in a chair, he said: "Polly, darling, we've heard the whole story from—"

He looked toward Larry Bishop, stumbling as if he did not remember his name. "And we've forgotten it, too," MacKenzie boomed in. "Yesterday it wouldn't have been any great loss if my whole family had been sunk in the lake. We were all more wicked than any one in the Silent City. But to-night it's different!"

Polly straightened up, her eyes brilliant with questioning. "Daddy," she asked, "does he mean—I ain't goin' to jail for my life-long? Oh, Daddy—"

She was in the big squatter's outstretched arms in a twinkling, weeping against his breast.

"This night's work," said MacKenzie, moved almost beyond speech, "won't pass outside the few who know it. And Polly—look up, child. I want to tell you something."

In silence she dared a timid glance at him. "While you were asleep—just now, Mr. Percival and I made arrangements with your father to give him work," MacKenzie told her. "Does that please you?"

"Awful much," she sighed; then she turned and looked at Bishop, standing against the wall. "What about Larry?" she murmured softly. "Poor, poor Larry."

"I'll help him, too," Marcus agreed eagerly. Polly capitulated one small moment. "There's Lye Braeger," she sighed again. "He ain't got many friends, Lye ain't."

MacKenzie's laugh sent a sense of relief over the gloomy group. "Then Lye Braeger, too," he exclaimed, "and any other squatter who wants to work."

Polly, overwhelmed with this generosity, stood up before him, curtsying each shoulder and framing her lovely, eager face.

"I guess maybe you were an angel all the time, like Granny Hope said once," she said shyly. "I'm thankin' you, sir, an' I'm hopin' the little one God's sendin' in the summer'll look just like—like"—a smile touched her lips—"just like Jerry."

Because she was so simply natural, MacKenzie replied solemnly: "If my child looks as much like Jerry as Jerry looks like his father, I'll be satisfied."

Then he hurried his wife away, offering to carry Robert home with them. "No, sir," said that young man stoutly. "I've got to talk to Polly Hopkings."

"I'm goin' now, too," grunted Larry Bishop. "Got to go an' see Lye Braeger."

CHAPTER XIII—Evelyn and MacKenzie are married. Determined to oust the squatters, MacKenzie takes Baby Jerry from Polly, intending to place him in an institution. Polly's heart is broken. She weeps in loneliness.

The stranger sympathizes with the squatters, and earns Polly's gratitude.

Pete Morrison In "Headin' North" Star At the Macdonald

According to the featured members of the cast, "Headin' North," the photoplay production that will be seen at the feature at the Macdonald theater today is one of the most truly western pictures ever made. Pete Morrison, the star epitomizes this deduction in his own quaintly humorous style as follows: "They call this picture we all are making, 'Headin' North,'" said Morrison, "but if I had it to say, I should very sincerely call it, 'Headin' North, East, South and West,' for judgin' by the way we have been skedaddlin' around in making our scenes, we must sure have touched all points of the compass."

"And whoever has the nerve to say that this isn't a western play aplenty, has just got to throw off his belt and chaps and fight me. Why, I have had my six-guns to tote ever since the picture started and I have often been gallopin' dead ahead on my little pinto, or else I have been pumpin' my six guns and fightin' ten at a time. And we have been in the hills, the woods, the desert and all over the cow country. If that don't make this a western, why just whisper it gently to me. But when you go pardner, why have your feet pointed in the other direction and get to goin'."

Sherlock Holmes in "The Berlioz," Joe Roth in a comedy called "All's Well," and a Scenic complete a good bill at the Macdonald.

Whist At St. Paul's Saturday

twisting smile to his lips by throwing his arms about his neck and kissing him.

"It's all right now, Larry, dear!" she whispered, "Good-by."

When she turned slowly to Robert, her face was suffused with crimson blood.

"Ain't your horses gettin' cold, sir?" she queried. "It's worse outside than when you came."

Jeremiah looked at them, went to the cot and picked up the drowsy baby. To hide his embarrassment, he seated himself and rocked the child back and forth. He was almost afraid of his beautiful daughter, dressed so unlike herself, her hair hanging in glistening curls over Evelyn Robertson's exquisite clothes.

"The horses are well covered, Polly," answered Robert. "I'll make it worth the driver's while to wait a bit."

Then unable to bear the strain any longer, he burst out:

"Darling, can you ever forgive me?" She gave him one melting glance and like a fluttering bird sped into his arms and stayed there. And thus the two young things, with nothing between them and long stretches of happiness, clung to each other until the twilight-think of the MacKenzie sleigh bells was lost in the night.

Then, the squatter girl, disengaging herself from her sweetheart's arms, went to her father.

"Daddy," she breathed, bending over him, "ever since I mended the roof that day—the same day Old Marc came home, I've been lovin'—she reached back her hand, and Robert clasped it, "I've been lovin'—"

Choking, she could get no farther in that important explanation.

Robert stepped beside her, and rested his hand on the downy head. He knew now that though she was a squatter, one of the despised of the earth, he loved her better than the whole world.

"You just like Granny Hope said, Daddy," Polly went on, the velvety brown softening of the misty eyes. "She said, Granny Hope said that love's a bigger an' better'n hate any day. An' it's true, ain't it?"

"Yep," nodded Hopkins, smoothing her face with one great hand. "I guess so, brat."

"It sure is," added Robert in her ear.

Then he looked at Jeremiah. "May I have her some day, sir?" he asked in reverent tones. "I'll make her so happy you won't regret it."

Jeremiah's big frame shook, and Polly, ever devoted to him, kissed him tenderly.

"I'll never leave you, Daddy, darlin', precious old Daddy," she cried. "Mebbe—"

She looked up at the tall man standing by her. "Mebbe," she repeated, "you'd take Jerry an' Daddy too, huh? They're awful good an' never get in anybody's way."

"And Jerry and your father too, my darling, laughed Robert, in an outburst of happiness. "I can have your little girl, Mr. Hopkins, can't I?"

"Yep," whispered Jeremiah, sighing heavily.

Then while Robert was bidding Polly good-night, Jeremiah, with faraway look upon his face, gathered the bow-legged child closer to him and rocked him gently to and fro.

RABID DOG BITES 3 SAN PABLOS

Frank and Fred Weber, San Pablo meat market proprietors, and their sister, Miss Weber, who were bitten by a pet dog two weeks ago, went to Berkeley Monday to take the Pasteur treatment for rabies, from which the dog has been found to be suffering.

The dog ran away from home two weeks ago, and, on returning after being missing for a day, acted very strangely and refused to be petted, biting each of the three Webers on the hand. Dr. J. B. Spaulding of Richmond was called, and cauterized the wounds. The dog was taken to an Oakland veterinary hospital, where it developed an acute case of rabies and died. The head of the dog was sent to the University hospital, where the rabies diagnosis was confirmed. The three Webers then went to Berkeley to take the Pasteur treatment.

Northern California Booster Trip

"Hello, Tom, old sport! I hear you've been buying an automobile. Good work. Glad to hear you've fallen heir to some money."

"Go away, boy. If you could see the boat I bought. It is a used car, but a good one, at that. Got it for the summer vacation mostly. Ted and I are going to take a month off and explore Northern California. I've lived here most of my life and haven't seen Yosemite yet! There's a lot to see, so we are going to rough it. Even so, that little car has cost me more than I bargained for and now I find I am going to be darn short of clothes. I do need a spring suit. Wish I had waited another month before investing in the car."

"Oh, you can use it all right. Don't worry about clothes. Why don't you go to 528 13th street and get some clothes at Cherry's? Credit, you know. Great values there, top. They'll let you make practically any convenient arrangements for payment. So much now and so much per month."

Dorothy Dalton Is Leading Lady At T. & D. Theater

Many difficulties of an unforeseen nature were encountered by George Melford, Paramount producer, and his cast of players in filming the scenes in "Moran of the Lady Letty," featuring Dorothy Dalton, which will be presented at the Richmond T. & D. Theater today and tomorrow.

The company left the Lasky studio in Hollywood, for San Francisco, the original locale of the novel by Frank Norris, expecting to return within three weeks. Instead, they were in the Bay City for more than five weeks making the exteriors.

Many of the scenes were taken aboard two sailing schooners—a three-master and a four-master ship. These had to be towed out from port every morning to the open sea and towed back in the evening. These operations required from four to five hours each day, leaving about four hours shooting time daily.

In the morning, when the vessels were being towed out, the tide was coming in and in the evening, when the company turned the nose of the ship homeward, the tide was ebbing out to sea. Thus it was necessary to "buck" the tide both going and coming, which accounts for the time required to get to and from the outer sea location.

Then, when the location was reached, if Dorothy Dalton or William Marshall, the cameraman weren't seasick, a few of the highly dramatic scenes of the picture were shot.

T. & D. News and "The Skipper's Flirtation" complete this interesting bill.

It will interest you to the finish, "The Big Town Round Up," Starts in tomorrow's Record Herald.

Formation of Food in Digestive Organs Cause of Trouble

If you suffer from indigestion it is a sure sign that your system is being slowly poisoned by the fermentation in the intestines. This condition produces heartburn, choking sensations in the chest, a feeling of heaviness or drowsiness, irritability, discouragement and despondency.

Mr. M. J. Christopher, 5724 Keyser Street, Germantown, Pa., long a sufferer from indigestion, writes: "Before using Dr. A. W. Chase's medicine, I felt so badly that I did not care whether I lived or died. I suffered from indigestion and my stomach would be so upset that even a piece of bread and a cup of coffee would give me great pain. Since taking Dr. A. W. Chase's K-L Pills I can eat almost anything without feeling any after-effects. The sore, aching feeling which I used to have in the lower part of my back is gone, and I feel so ambitious to do many things which I could not do before."

JAP BILLIARD EXPERT TONIGHT

All preparations have been made to accommodate a record crowd at Jake's billiard room on Macdonald avenue this evening when Marc Catton, holder of the world's record at straight rail billiards (2834), and at 18-2 ball line, (902) meets Tadao Suganuma, Japanese expert, in a 250-point exhibition game of billiards.

Before returning to Japan recently, Koji Yamada, champion billiardist of Nippon placed Suganuma under the tutelage of Catton and the young Japanese shows promise of outstripping his teacher. He is under a 14-year contract with a Japanese billiard firm which recognized in him material for a coming world's champion and Suganuma is studiously applying himself in the hope of entering the next tournament for the purpose of challenging Jake Schaefer, present champion.

Seating capacity will be arranged in the billiard rooms for the accommodation of all and those who attend the game will be given a treat in technique, and finesse in the art of handling a cue.

After the game, which will be officially refereed, Catton will give an exhibition of fancy and difficult shots which few people believe are possible to make unless they see them.

Man O'War Is Car To Delight The Epicure

A new and dashing sports model car appeared on the avenue yesterday afternoon when the "Man O'War," the latest wheeled contraption of the Davis factory made its debut.

The model which Mrs. S. L. Folkel was steering along the boulevards was certainly a "pippin." It has all the classy lines of an imported machine, with the power of the American high grade boats. The steel wheels would appeal to the imagination of Eddie Hearne or Tom Milton or Barney Oldfield, himself. The heavy upholstery done in Spanish leather lends a suggestion of luxury sufficient to delight Babe Daniels or other favored child of Hollywood's upper crust.

The price is $1895.

"FLU" LEAVES PATIENT WEAK AND NERVELESS

Regains Strength After Almost Giving
Up Hopes of Recovery

Spanish Influenza or "Flu" as this dread disease is now generally called, almost invariably leaves the sufferer weak, nervous, discouraged and depressed. As a matter of fact, some people never fully recover from the effects of "Flu" simply because they do not know there are remedies that will bring back their health and strength.

In a letter, Mrs. Jonas Myers, R. F. D. No. 1, Kelly's Station, Pa., tells how she counteracted the effects of a severe attack of "Flu" after trying various remedies. She says: "I never took any medicine that did me so much good as Dr. A. W. Chase's Tonic Pills. I had the 'Flu' and after I got over it, was so weak and nervous, I could hardly get around. I tried different medicines but was no better when I quit using them than before I started. A friend sent me one of your booklets and I read of Dr. A. W. Chase's medicines. I may say that I had given up all hope of ever getting better, but three boxes of Dr. A. W. Chase's Tonic Pills made me feel like a new person. I feel now as if life was worth living once more, and am recommending Dr. A. W. Chase's medicines to everyone I know."

You can buy Dr. A. W. Chase's Remedies at all drug stores. To be sure of getting the genuine, see that the portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M. D., are on each box. This trade mark is your protection against imitations. —Advertisement.
